with KCC R&D Center's energy-efficient Zero House research to its eco-friendly housing designs that strikes balance between humans and nature, our architectural culture becomes the global eco-standard, which the world, beyond Korea, takes notice.

Background on the Founding of the Center

KCC Construction Environment R&D Center was founded for the purpose of conducting research on next-generation housing. Its three development plans are: developing a value-added system for future housing, diversifying product uses, and conducting R&D in generic technology. Through this, the center takes the lead in actualizing an enhanced life for humanity and the world by securing competitiveness in quality, leading the architectural environment market, and building global competitive capacity and future growth potential.
